DISGRACEFUL BEHAVIOR BY THE

Warner Cuts Benahue's Leg with His Spikes and the Latter Tries to Punch Him-Police Compelled to Interfere and Clear the Field -Results of the Games Played Vesterday. The game between the New Yorks and Chi-eagos yesterday was declared a drawafter eight innings, during which time both teams behaved disgracefully, and a free fight was prevented by the police. Boston defeated Cleveland, and Baltimore administered another setback to the Cincinnatis, so that the two leaders are still four points apart, the champions increasing their end over the locals to forty-eight points. The Brooklyns dropped two games to the Louisvilles, who took seventh place from the Philadelphias, the latter losing their third straight game to the Pittsburgs. Washington again got away with St. Louis. The results: Mew York, 6; Chicago, 6.

If the magnates who own and control the clubs in the National League could have seen the game between the New Yorks and Chicagos yesterday afternoon at the Polo Grounds they would have realized how unpopular rowdy ball playing is in this city just now. A more disgraceful affair, with both sides to blame, has never been seen here before. Senseless kicking by players of both teams, notably Anson and Dahlen; pugilistic tactics by the latter for which Umpire Emslie very properly put him off the field; an unsportsmanlike trick by Gleason, who prevented the Chicago second baseman from completing an easy double play by grabbing his throwing arm, and an assault by Catcher Warner upon Donahue of the visitors, in which the latter player's leg was cut to the bone by Warner's spikes, were the principal incidents which disgusted 10,000 persons who paid their money to see ball playing and who expressed their feelings in the most unmistakable manner. Warner's act was of sufficient criminality to warrant his suspension by the National League. No such premeditated attempt to injure a fellow player has ever been seen here, and, according to Umnice Emalie, it was the most barefaced assault that he had ever witnessed during his long career on the diamond. So palpably in the wrong was Warner that several members of the New York team openly reprimanded him. while the big crowd censured him with hoots

It happened this way: When the New Yorks went to the bat for their last half of the eighth inning the score was a tie. Warner, who was first up, put a clean single in centre field. Donnelly, the next man, struck out, and as Kittridge dropped the ball Warner started for second. The batsman was out, anyway, so the Chicago catcher lined the ball to Donahue, who was covering second base. The throw was so quick and accurate that the ball got to the baseman when Warner was two yards away. Instead of sliding on the ground or even turning back for a run down between the bases, Warner jumped at least four feet in the air and shot his spiked shoes squarely into Donahue's legs. The spikes cut Donahue's left ship open from the knee to the ankle, and the injured player fell to the ground, the blood pouring from the wound in his leg.

Hundreds of people jumped from their seats and cried "Shame!" "Put him out!" "Arrest aim!" Donahue quickly got up, and as he saw his assailant he rushed at him and aimed a blow at his head. Warner backed away and got behind some of the players, who were try-ing to prevent an open fight. One or two New York players showed their bravery by grabbing bats and running out to the scene of the trouble, but others, who have always been gentlemanly players, ordered Warner to apologize Umpire Emslie, meanwhile, had officially condemned Warner's behavior by ordering him out of the game. Several exched men had climbed out of the stands an i mber of poclimbed out of the stands and puber of policemen were rushing towerd are bunch of players gathered about the combetants. Warner apologized under computation, and the game proceeded long enough to allow Seymour to close the inning by fouling to the catcher. Then, as it was half-past 6 o'clock, Umpire Emsile called the game on account of darkness. In a minute thousands jumped onto the field and made for Donahue to sympathize with him and to look at his wounds. Warner ran up to h'm again and said he didn't mean to burthim, but Donahue waved him off. The players were completely hemmed in, and a number of loafers tried to get them to fight. The police, under Capt. Donahue, then rushed upon the field and literally fought an opening for the players to get to their quarters. The police Captain said to The Sur reporter:

"It was a cowardly assault. What do these people want! They are in third place and are playing good bals. Then why is it necessary to injure their opponents!"

playing good ball. Then why is it necessary to injure their opponents?

Umpire Emsile and Catcher Kittridge both said that it was the dirties; piece of business they had ever seen on a ball field, while the crowd evidently felt the same way, for they did not spare Warner in their condemnatory remarks. To the credit of several New York players, Donahue received assistance from them in bandaging his leg in the dressing room after the trouble.

players, Donahue received assistance from them in bandaging his leg in the dressing room after the trouble.

Anson, who seldom indulges in senseless kicking, lost entire control of himself during the game. For some reason he got it into his head that Emslie was giving him the worst of it, while the fact of the matter was that Emslie was very fair and rendered a number of close decisions with aunarent good judgment. When Anson was called out at the plate in the third inning, trouble began. It was a close ruling, but Anson would not accept it without a roar, which was backed up by several of his men.

In the fifth inning Dahlen tried to steat third base. He slid under Donnelly all right, but went at least a yard beyond the bas. Donnelly pluned him down and blocked him off so that here was no question about his being put out, but when Emslie said he was out Dahlen acted like a wild man. He rushed at Emslie as he was walking toward the plate, and grabbed him roughly by the arm. Wheeling the umpire aroand so that they were face to face. Dahlen began to use abosive language.

Emslie very properly put the man out of the game and ordered him off the field. Anson, wild with rage, then shook his flat at Emslie. The umpire aroand so that up. Anson didn't expect such retailation and subsided. Dahlen's retirement necessitated some changer. Catcher Donahue went to short field, and Kittridge took up the mack.

With the score of to I against them, the New Catcher Donante went to short field, and Kitt-ridge took up the mask.

With the score is to I against them, the New Yorks rallied in the seventh inning and field the score. The crowd, which up to that time had refrained from attempts to rattle the visitors, now broke into constant howing, cheeries, refrained from attempts to rattle the visitors, now broke into constant howing, cheering, hooting, bell ringing, and horn blowing. It was such an outburst that nobody could hear the umpire's decisions. Donneily and szymour rile that such a symour reaching third, and the first named scored on Van Haltren's two-bagger, Seymour reaching third, McCreery raised an easy fly to centre field, and it looked like a sure out. Griffith, however, made a square muf, and Seymour scored.

In his frantic attempt to get the ball into the infield, Griffith then made a crazy throw and struck Second Baseman Callahan in the back of the head with the ball. Callahan dropped like a log, and the umpire called time. Van Haltren had scored and McCreery had reached accord when play was suspended, so that when it was resumed and the Chicagos saw McCreery standing on third, they begun to kick again. Anson, Kitiridge, Griffith, Everitt, and Thornton surrounded the umpire and yelled in his cars, for the crowd was still making an awful noise.

ise. Emslie had not seen McCreery stop at second

Yorks. That was too much for Anson, and the game proceeded.

Mike Tiernan then tied the acore by driving the ball into the right field acats for a home run, McCreevy, who should have ocen out, crossing the plate ahead of him. Davis fouled to Everitt and the same got a base on balls. Clark hit to Donabue, who threw the ball to Callahan at second, forcing tileason. As Callahan was in the act of throwing the ball to dirst to complete an easy doubte play, tileason grabbed his right arm and the ball went wide to the scatt. Emsile, however, saw the interference and declared Clark out for Gicason unsports manlike trick.

A redecumar feature was Sevmour's pitching, life struck out ten men, six in the first two incines, and equalled this year's record heid by Klobedanz and Thornton. Davis played another great game at short, and Gicason made the star play of the day by catching Decker's base hit in the eighth with one hand. Warner caught below his usual standard, and McCreery struck out twice. When Dahlen left the field Ansen had only nine men left, as all the others are under the weather. The game will be played of to-morrow. The score:

Never before has the Brooklyn team been beaten twice in one day, but the players from across the bridge have at last been forced to swallow the bitter pill. Errors were a potent factor in both games, more so in the first, the Kentucky players piling up 7 runs in the sixth inning on three hits, four bases on balls and rank misplays by Shoch, Griffin, Burrill and Lachance, while Kennedy was hit hard. Another one of those disgraceful scenes which are doing so much harm to the national game was enacted in the fourth inning. Lachance hit for two bases, and because the umpire wouldn't call the ball foul Pitcher Frazer pushed him around the diamond in a manner that reminded the onlookers of a football game. The visiting players gathered around Carpenter, and a talking bee was in progress for a few minutes. At the same time two of the Louisvilles kept Frazer away from the umpire. The pitcher's actions even aroused the policeman stationed near the grand stand. He walked to the plate, but Carpenter told the "cop" he wasn't needed, and the game finally went on. Clingman in the seventh linning used foul language and was fined $10 and put out of the game. The score:

There were a number of Dad Clarke's friends scattered about the grand stand and bleacherles, and they gave a loud cheer when the pitcher walked out to the box. Dad was by no means at his best. Barnie's men bunched three hits in the first, but Fisher hit a fly to Werden, leaving three men on the bases. Had the game lasted another inning the Brooklyns would have probably won, for they made Clarke wince in the ninth. With one out Grillin singled and scored on Shindle's hit. Alex. Smith filed out, but Lachance hit the ball past the embankment in deep left. Griffin easily got home, but Lachance was nipped just as he was about to plant his foot on the plate with the ticing run. Generally the hit would have netted a home run, but Fred Clarke and Wagner made pretty throws, and a groan went up from the spectators who had been yelling at Lachance to score a home run. GOSHEN, Aug. 28.-Marcus Daly likes big purses. He won $5,000 of a $7,500 purse on Tuesday with China Silk, and his driver, Kenney. landed the same amount to-day with Limerick at the closing of the Orange county circuit races. Nowaday, J. nounced to his friends that money placed on her would probably be wasted, and she was barred from the betting.

Both Elsie S. and Nowadey acted badly in the first and third heats. The betting was $100 on Nowaday to $80 on Limerick. After the race, a gold medal was awarded Driver Kenney which had been presented by Mrs. Jessie Louise Chickering of Vermont. Starter McElroy announced that Mr. Harriman and Mr. Daly had agreed to give two-year-old and three-year-old races on the Goshen track next year, open to all. Ixia, the favorite in the 2:40 class, was distanced in the second heat, and the fraternity lost all its money. Summary:

break all previous records for either Vermont mile or half-mile tracks for trotters or pacers. This same feat was also accomplished by his mate Robert J. The first exhibition mile of the day was by John R. Gentry driven by Bowne, and paced by the running horse Gold Brick. Gentry went as follows: quarter, 314 seconds; half, 1:03; three-quarters, 1:35, and the mile in 2:07.

This beat all previous State records for either mile or half-mile tracks, the record until to-day being held for mile tracks by Nelson, who made it in 2:114 at White River Junction, and the half-mile mark until now was held by John R. Gentry, made at Rutland a few days ago, at 2:114. Robert J. was also driven to-day by Howne and paced by Gold Brick. His marks were: Quarter, 0:3219; half, 1:35; three-quarters, 1:36, and the mile 2:08. The time of both horses is remarkable, inasmuch as the track is a half mile, and 33 feet more than a mile twice around. Gentry went in third horse position.

GREAT SPORT AT THE BAY. HEAD FINISHES THE ORDER OF THE DAY YESTERDAY. Great Duel Between Belmar and Hastings for the Ocean Handicap-Taral's Claim of Foul Not Allowed - Alice Parley, at a Pancy Price, Wins the Dash Stakes for Mr. Gray.

The 10,000 persons at Shoopshead Bay yesterday afternoon saw some of the very best racing of the year. Belmar best Hastings a short head for the Ocean Hamilton in the fast time of 1:41, while Gala Day won the opening event by a head only, with the second, third and fourth horses necks apart. The steeplechase over the short course will long be remembered as one of the best cross-country events ever seen hereabouts, Flushing and Royal Scarlet taking fences, water umps, and the other obstacles head and head and coming home so closely locked that only the judges could separate them. The Dash Stakes, at five furlongs, for two year-olds, supposed to to be a good thing for Lydian, Uriel, or Plaudit, which finished respectively second, third, and fourth for the Futurity, was the grand surprise of the day, the winner turning up in James O. Gray's filly Alice Farley, which had been shipped by express from Detroit for this one engage ment. Mr. Gray, who is the lessee and manager of the trotting track at Saugus, near Bos ton, told his friends that Alice Farley could not be beaten, yet few took his tip, and the daughter of Spendthrift went to the post at 40 to 1. The Ocean Handicap, at a mile, was easily the feature of the card. Ornament, Ben Holladay, Sunny Slope, and Lehman were withdrawn, the last-named because of the serious illness of Charles Fleischmann, and with Hastings, Belmar, Havoc, Tom Cromwell, Rondo, Cassette, and St. Nicholas II. still in the race, speculation was very warm. The price against any member of the field was liberal, 4 to 1 being the closing quotation against Belmar, Havoc, and Tom Cromwell. Hastings was at 8 to 1, an unbeardof quotation for a horse of his class, while 10 to 1 could be had about Rondo. Cassette was 40 to 1, and St. Nicholas II, went begging at 100 to 1 There was a delay of ten minutes or so at the post, during which Pittsburg Phil's commissioners swamped the ring with money on the good gray four-year-old. When the flag fell it was to a good start, with Cassette in front. The pretty brown mare raced along at a smart city, with Tom Cromwell, H stings, and Havoc close up, and Belinar trailing. At the end of half a mile Tom Cromwell supplanted Cassette, and Rondo and Belmar trailing. At the end of half a mile Tom Cromwell supplanted Cassette, and Rondo moved up on the outside with a dizzling burst of speed. Taral kept Hastings at the tails of the leaders until rounding the upper turn, where he saw Sloan making play with Belmar on the outside of the field. It was a race for blood from the the head of the stretch to the wire. Sloan rods very close with Belmar when straightened out for home and forced Hastings to swerve toward the inner rail. This cut off Rondo and the battle was now four-cornered, between Helmar, Hastings, Havoc and Tom Cromwell. The four were all ned at the last furlong pole. Havoc was the first to quit under the furious drive, and then Belmar, crowding Hastings still further toward the rail, forced Sims to take Tom Cromwell up or be jammed against the fence. Taral did the best he could under the circumstances and rode home with hand and heel, but the victory was Belmar's by a head. The pair finished on the rail. When Sims had to noull up Tom Cromwell, Rondo gained third place by a head.

Before the horses had refurned to the stand Trainer Hyland went into the stewards' stand and claimed foul against Belmar. He then instructed Tarai to go up and do likewise. The stewards had Sloan, Taral, and H. Martin, the rider of Rondo, before them, while an expectant throng gathered about the stand. After hearing what the jockeys had to say, the horses were ninced as they finished. Pittsburg Phil placed up and down nervously during the discussion, and nettled by some remark which intimated that Hastings was the better horse and should have won, the plunger remarket.

"I'll run the same race over again for $10,000 a side."

Mr. Belmont is ill at his place near Hempstead and did not see the race. Taral was auspended for two days for misbehavior at the post, and Sims and Powers will each take one day off and go fishing for the same offence.

Mont d'Or, Central Trust, Danforth, Woodford filly, and Tammany Hall II, were withdrawn from the Dash Stakes, while Lydian, who ran second for the Futurity, and Swampo were added. The race was conceded to be between Uriel, third in the Futurity, Lydian, and Plaudit, the last named having also raced satisfactorily for the big prize won by L'Alouctte. Away down near the bottom of the card appeared the name of Alice Fariey, a filly by Spendthrift, out of Margery, owned by James O. Gray of Saugus, Mass. Mr.
Gray was about the course all morning telling his friends that his filly could not lose. Most of those to whom he told his tale took the tip in one car and let it out of the other, but a few tried to reason with him, saying: "But, man alive, Plaudit and Urici are in this race."

"I don't care a cent if they are," was the reply.

"But Lydian is an added starter," said another,
"I don't care whether they add Hamburg," finally said Mr. Gray.
"But how about Maber!" said another man,
"Why, I could ride her myself and win," was the response, and as Mr. Gray's flaure resembles that of Charley Reed and Alice Farler is a small filly, the man from Saugus was regarded as incurable and looked upon pityingly,

That was before the race. After the contest Mr. Gray of Saugus was looking for a grain sack in which to stow the bundles of bilishe won from the bookmakers, for Alice Farley played with her field, and won literally galloping. Down the siretch she dashed far in advance of Flaudit, and passed the judges four lengths to the good. Plaudit was second and San Venado third. The winner is a small filly of the proportions that has won a number of races at Fort Eric and performed well at Defroit. She was sent East especially for vesterday's race, and will go beg to Detroit fields or to morrow, it is said. The time for the five inclings, I.o., showed that Mr. Gray knew what he was talking about when he said that he would win and dign't care what started against him.

Gala Day was favorite for the opening dash at five furlongs, with Sir Gawain the most fancted started against him.

Gala bay was favorite for the opening dash at five furlongs, with Sir Gawain the most fancied of the other malden two-year-olds of which the field was composed. John McCafferty had the mount on his own colt, and after a lively serming with Hairpin, Black Cock, and Wasteful, got home first by a head. Hairpin, Black Cock, and Wasteful followed, necks apart, in the order named. Some persons were of the opinion that McCafferty could have won off by daylight had he cared to, and that the Rayon d'Or colt is a much better youngster than yesterday's race would go to indicate.

Mannassas was bull-headed on the way to the post for the second race and ran into the fence, barking his shoulder and squeezing Clawson's leg. It was a dash at one mile and a furiong, and Souffle was favorite at 2½ to 1. Mannassas coming next in favor at 16 to 5. Joe Miller, James Monroe, and Skate, the other starters, were held at an average price of 4 to 1. Manassas rushed to the front st-the start, just as he did at Hrighton, and although Sherrer tried his best to get up with Souffle, the three-year-old was always master of the situation. He won by a counie of lengths in fast time, and troited back to the stant so lame that he will be retired for a time, Joe Miller was a fair third, with Skate last.

Mr. Vosburgh, whose work in the Ocean couple of lengths in fast time, and troited back to the stand so lame that he will be retired for a time. Joe Millier was a fair third, with Skate last.

Mr. Vosburgh, whose work in the Ocean Handicap was masterly, troated Billati lenicatly for the fifth event, and Father Bill Daly's gelding, ridden by Tod Sloan, was made a decided favorite. It was a case of Billati first all the way, the real contest being for second money between Tripping and Lecdsville, the Keene filly getting it by a head.

Then came the steeplechase. It was over the short course and had but three starters, Royal Scarlet, Decapod and Flushing. The first named was favorite at odds on. It was Flushing a first race through the field and Duniap had the mount. As over the hurdles, Flushing rushed away impulsively at flag fall, but Royal Scarlet was right after him, and so fast and furious did this pair race that Decapod was quickly outstripped. Royal Scarlet is one of the cracks of the year at the cross-country game, but it is no exaggeration to say that he was farrly beaten at his own game by Flushing. The latter fenced like a bird and very often both horses were in the air at the same time. The crowd was aroused to a high degree of enthusiasm and the rails were lined with men shouting encouragement to the elders as they flew over water and tence. Flushing went wide on the turns, but was first over the last fence by half a length. Royal Scarlet, like the gamecock that he is, went up to him, and, staggering and recling, the pair struggled home, both English and Dunlap riding like maximen. Royal Scarlet won by half a head only, and as he was conceding eight pounds to Flushing, and as he was conceding eight pounds to Flushing rise proformance must go on record as most meritorious.

"Give us such races as that and there will be no fears for the future of steeplechasing," was the comment of a well-known racegoer as the numbers went up.

no fears for the future of steeplechasing," was the comment of a well-known racegoer as the numbers went up.

It was announced yesterday that Jorkey Penn had been reinstated to favor once more by the stewards of the Jorkey Club, and the colored boy will be seen in the saddle this week. Jorkey Neimeyer has been granted permission to ride pending a further investigation of Marshall's race by the full based of stewards.

Jockey Walker, who rode flarvey in the Dash Stakes, was suspended for two racing days for misbehavior at the post and impertinence to the starter. Summary follows:
